After the Reroofing Project is Complete:

What started as a roof estimate is now a completed job. Once the final piece of material is in place and the final nail removed from the grounds, a roofing company representative will inspect the job just to triple check the roofing crew's work. The disposal container will be picked up, and the yard sign removed. Once payment is complete, you can expect to receive the roofing company's workmanship warranty as well as the manufacturer's warranty through the mail. With all the work done, it's time to stand back and appreciate the beauty of your new roof.
